Where the evidence comes from

Listening

Your written notes after each rotation: what your table said, in your words.

Interacting

What the teacher hears at Table 1, and what your table writes about you.

Presenting

Session 2 (reading the statement aloud) and Session 3 (the panel share-back).

What the teacher listens for at Table 1

One session, one group at a time. The moves are the four colours on the WAGOLL wall.

Session 1 · Personal response

- Says how the quote hit them, with a because · Interacting 5 to 7
- Asks what someone meant before answering · Listening 5 to 7
- Goes back to the words when they respond · Listening 8
- Notifies who hasn't spoken · Interacting 10

Session 2 · I couldn't disagree more

- Reader: reads clearly, then runs the talk without taking over · Presenting 6 to 8, Interacting 8
- Takes a side and gives a reason from the book · Interacting 5
- Answers the other person's actual reason · Listening 8 to 9
- Changes tone between persuading and conceding · Interacting 9

Session 3 · Passage panel

- Names a writing feature and the words it lives in · Interacting 7
- Refuses a vague word and asks for the evidence · Listening 9
- Turns an observation into a claim about effect · Interacting 7
- Share-back: one clear sentence to the class · Presenting 8 to 11

Teacher observation record · Table 1

One row per student in the group. Circle the level you heard, write the words you heard. Three copies: one per session.

Continuum levels 5 to 11 as published in the school's Speaking and Listening continuum. Listening runs to level 9 and Interacting to level 10 in the source document; the blank cells are blank there too.
